Canadian King of Middle-Grade, Gordon Korman's 100th NOVEL!

Ages 9-12

From the Canadian King of Middle-Grade, the story of a middle-school "band of brothers" – five friends who need to stick together after they set up a hideout in an abandoned bomb shelter and discover that the only way to be true friends is to reveal their secrets and help each other out.

"I try to make my characters funny or exciting because writing a novel is almost like living with those characters for a few months. I certainly wouldn't want to spend so much time hanging out with boring characters – and I don't think anybody would enjoy reading about them."

The Fort

by Gordon Korman
Jun 28, 2022 Hardcover $23.99 CAD

From the bestselling author of RESTART, the story of a middle-school "band of brothers" -- five friends who need to stick together after they set up a hideout in an abandoned bomb shelter and discover that the only way to be true friends is to reveal their secrets and help each other out.

The morning after Hurricane Leo rips through the town of Canaan, residents awaken to widespread destruction -- power outages, downed branches, uprooted trees, broken windows and damaged roofs. Four eighth-grade friends -- Evan, Jason, Mitchell, and CJ -- meet to explore the devastation. The tight-knit group is dismayed to find that Evan has brought along a stray -- Ricky, who is new to their town and school, and doesn't have any friends yet.

Ricky is the one to find the strange trap door that's appeared in the middle of the woods -- the door to an old bomb shelter, unearthed by the hurricane. Inside, the boys find a completely intact underground lair, complete with electricity, food, and entertainment (in the form of videocassettes). The boys vow to keep the place's existence to themselves.

Things soon get tense. Some bad locals keep snooping around. And what started out as a fun place to escape soon becomes a serious refuge for one of the kids who is trying to avoid an abusive home situation. In order to save the shelter, the friends must keep its secret... and in order to save themselves, they're going to have to share their individual secrets, and build the safest place they can.

Unplugged

by Gordon Korman
Jun 07, 2022 Paperback , Trade $10.99 CAD

King of middle-grade Gordon Korman's new standalone novel full of mystery, humour, friendship . . . and alligators! Now in paperback.

Jett Baranov is Silicon Valley's number one spoiled brat. The son of a billionaire tech genius, he has everything money can buy, which means he's in the habit of getting into a lot of trouble. When one of his stunts brings in the US Air Force, Jett's father sends him off to Oasis Mind and Body Wellness center where he'll be unplugged and disconnected from the outside world.

Of course Jett hates it instantly and does his best to get himself kicked out. But it's not as easy as he thinks. When Grace Atwater rescues a defenseless lizard, Jett is drawn into caring for the little guy with the help of Grace, Tyrell Karrigan and Brooklynne Feldman. But things aren't as they seem at Oasis. There's something going on with the head meditation pathfinder, Ivory -- something dangerous that threatens the future of all the guests at Oasis. And Jett is the only one who can put a stop to it.

Told in Gordon's now classic multi-voice style, Unplugged combines mystery, comedy, friendship . . . and don't forget about the crocodiles!

Two kids from different worlds form an unexpected friendship in this dual-narrative novel.

Excerpt from Autumn Bird and the Runaway:

Toronto is a funny place. Where Cody lives is one of the poorest neighbourhoods in the whole downtown. Tens of thousands of people cram into tall towers in a square block or two. But just across the ravine is one of the richest neighbourhoods in, like, the world. Seems like every house has a West Wing, five chimneys and a butler.

Cody waited in the no-one's-land between neighbourhoods. He was at the intersection, literally at the crossroads. In front of him, the light was red. The signal with the hand up told him to stop. On his left, the light was green, and the signal with the walking figure told him to go.

Without taking a conscious decision, he obeyed the traffic signs, and headed to his left. Bloor Street is six lanes wide at this point. Cody crossed them all and kept walking, past the subway station, up the hill and into the rich neighbourhood.

The streetlights came on. It was twilight. Cody spotted a bird, a dark silhouette against the grey sky. And a small, quick flitty shape near a tree – a bat. He shivered. He hated bats. Speaking of shivering, the air was leftover warm. It was a nice day, but it would be chilly soon. Cody was glad he was wearing a jacket.

An old lady walked her dog toward him, her skin very white under the streetlight, her dog's fur very black on the end of the leash. When she saw Cody, she pulled her dog to the other side of the road.

Not too many other people were out. A sports car drove by with music blaring. Cody didn't recognize the music. He didn't belong here, of course. The lady with the dog knew that. He couldn't imagine staying here, any more than he could imagine staying in Hollywood, or Hobbiton or Hogwarts, but he knew the layout. There were dark nooks where he could hide. There were soft lawns to stretch out.

He stopped in mid-yawn. His jaw hurt. Was it bedtime? It seemed like it. Cody didn't know the actual time. He didn't wear a watch or carry a phone.

Phone – haha. He remembered lunch last week at school, the whole table of kids comparing their new phones. Cody walked by without stopping. How would he ever get a phone? Who would pay for it? Dad complains at the cost of pizza.

Some of those kids might live around here. If they do, Cody might end up walking with them to school tomorrow. That would be awkward.

It was still Thursday, right? So tomorrow was Friday. School gave Cody a place to spend the day. Which was good. But if Dad was looking for him, school would be where he looked. That was a problem!

Or . . . was it? Would Dad look for him? Would he even know he was gone? You know, he might not. He'd forget the beating – he always does. He might forget Cody entirely for a few days.

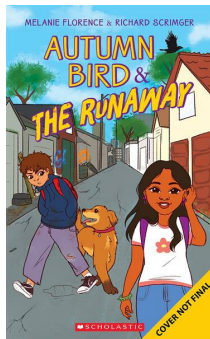

Dad. Won't. Miss. Me. Cody was happy at the thought. No he wasn't. Well, maybe he was. He didn't know how he felt, except tired and sore. He started to yawn, catching himself before his jaw hurt again. He stumbled around the next turn and started looking for a dark place to spend the night.

There was a house with a pointy round turret. Beside it was a house with a sculpture on the front lawn. Between the houses was a thick hedge of shrubs. It smelled like salad. Sort of spicy. Cody inhaled deeply, stumbled, spun round and fell sideways into the hedge.

Dad won't miss me. I won't miss him.

Cody ran out of energy. The internal mechanism of heart and mind, fear and pain, need and hope, the human engine, ground to a halt. He wriggled out of his backpack, and slid down the hedge to sit on top of it. He let his head slump forward onto his chest. Footsteps. Cody startled awake. Someone was walking toward him. The streetlight shone from behind the stranger's head like a halo. Was this an angel? The figure came closer and turned into a girl he knew from art class. One of the rich cool kids. What was her name again?

Autumn.

Autumn Bird and the Runaway

By (author) Melanie Florence 🍁, By (author) Richard Scrimger 🍁

Jul 19, 2022 | Paperback, Trade | $10.99

Two kids from different worlds form an unexpected friendship.

Cody's home life is a messy, too-often terrifying story of neglect and abuse. Cody himself is a smart kid, a survivor with a wicked sense of humour that helps him see past his circumstances and begin to try to get himself out.

Autumn is, quite literally, on the other side of the tracks from him. Her home life is loving and secure, and she is "in" with the popular girls at school, even if she has a secret life as a glasses-wearing, self-professed comic book nerd at home. And even if the pressure to fit in at school requires hours of time spent making herself look "perfect."

Returning home from a movie one evening, Autumn comes across Cody, face down in the laneway behind her house. All Cody knows is that he can't take another beating from his father like the one he just narrowly escaped. He can't go home, but he doesn't have anywhere else to go either. Autumn won't turn her back on him, even if they never really were friends at school. She agrees to let him hide out in her dad's art studio at night.

Over the next couple of days of Autumn sneaking Cody food and bandages, his story comes out. And so does hers.

Excerpt from Meet Me in Mumbai:

I met Suresh about three months ago, a month after I arrived from India. when Natasha, my new best friend, dragged me to my first American party. Salma Aunty had no idea that I wasn't sleeping over at Natasha's because of a late-night group project. Mike Taylor, who sat behind me in English, was throwing the party at his house while his parents were out of town, and he had a cool older brother who supplied beer and an alibi in case their parents called.

I didn't really want to be here, but Natasha insisted that I needed to experience a "real high school party." She deserted me as soon as we arrived to go make out with Brian.

The basement was pretty crowded, but I managed to find an empty spot on the green couch in the corner. A few people I vaguely recognized from school attempted to dance to Britney Spears's "Toxic," but they mostly ended up shuffling awkwardly on the spot. I pulled out my little sketchpad and pencil and attempted to capture the scene in front of me. By the time I was done, I realized I'd drawn the faces of my friends from back home. I contemplated how Natasha and I were going to get back to her house, because I didn't really plan on getting into a car with her after watching her chug beer from a hose. I did not understand the appeal of parties like these.

Zara Hossain Is Here

by Sabina Khan 🍁

May 17, 2022 Paperback , Trade $13.99 CAD

Zara's family has waited years for their visa process to be finalized so that they can officially become US citizens. But it only takes one moment for that dream to come crashing down around them.

Seventeen-year-old Pakistani immigrant, Zara Hossain, has been leading a fairly typical life in Corpus Christi, Texas, since her family moved there for her father to work as a pediatrician. While dealing with the Islamophobia that she faces at school, Zara has to lay low, trying not to stir up any trouble and jeopardize their family's dependent visa status while they await their green card approval, which has been in process for almost nine years.

But one day her tormentor, star football player Tyler Benson, takes things too far, leaving a threatening note in her locker, and gets suspended. As an act of revenge against her for speaking out, Tyler and his friends vandalize Zara's house with racist graffiti, leading to a violent crime that puts Zara's entire future at risk. Now she must pay the ultimate price and choose between fighting to stay in the only place she's ever called home or losing the life she loves and everyone in it.

From the author of the "heart-wrenching yet hopeful" (Samira Ahmed) novel, The Love and Lies of Rukhsana Ali, comes a timely, intimate look at what it means to be an immigrant in America today, and the endurance of hope and faith in the face of hate.

Jul 19, 2022 Hardcover $24.99 CAD

A novel in two acts—told eighteen years apart—gives voice to both mother (Ayesha) and daughter (Mira) after an unplanned teen pregnancy led Ayesha to place Mira up for adoption.

Seventeen-year-old Mira Fuller-Jensen was adopted by her moms at birth. All she knows about her biological mother is that she was a high-school student from India who returned to India after giving birth. Although Mira loves her moms, she's always felt out of place in her mostly white community.

So when Mira finds an old box with letters addressed to her from her birth mother, she sees a way to finally capture that feeling of belonging. Her mother writes that if Mira can forgive her for having to place her for adoption, she should find a way to travel to India for her eighteenth birthday and meet her. Mira knows she'll always regret it if she doesn't go. But is she actually ready for what she will learn?

The Tyrell Show: Season One

by Miles Grose, Shaz Enrico Lym
Aug 02, 2022 Paperback , Trade $9.99 CAD

A highly illustrated, funny, and heartwarming story from the point of view of a precocious 11-year-old boy, Tyrell, who copes with his day-to-day stress by hosting an imaginary real-time podcast in his head!

Tyrell is a funny, imaginative 11 year-old-heading into his final year at Marcus Garvey Elementary. But soon after he starts, his high hopes that being a 6th grader and now one of the oldest kids in the school will automatically make him one of the coolest and wisest kids around pretty much go POOF!

For starters, SOMETHING seems to be going on with his best friend, Boogie. He's just not himself. Plus, schoolwork is uh, way harder than maybe he thought it would be. And to make things worse, there's a school show coming up at the end of the year that Tyrell is terrified of! Of course, it's not all bad. A pack of rabbits gets loose in the school. And when Principal Davis fell asleep with the intercom on, snoring for all the school to hear? Priceless. Tyrell relives these events and copes with all this stress the only way he knows how — through his imaginary "podcast" recording sessions held on the floor of his bedroom, often with his lovable bulldog Monty at his side.

Tyrell Show is a perfect series for anyone who's ever held their own talk show on a bedroom floor with a tape recorder, iPad, or computer at their side. This highly illustrated coming-of-age series starring young African American boys is sure to put a smile on the face of anyone who picks it up.

Contributor Bio

ROBERT MUNSCH started telling stories when he was teaching in a daycare, to get the kids to settle down. Now he is Canada's number one author for young readers with more than 80 books in print, including such bestsellers as The Paper Bag Princess (La princesse dans un sac), We Share Everything! (On partage tout!), So Much Snow! (La tempête du siècle) and Love You Forever. Every one of his stories was first told aloud to children — and each one is dedicated to the kid who inspired the story. He is a member of the Order of Canada, has a star on Canada's Walk of Fame, and is a hero to generations of young readers. In 2021 he was nominated for the prestigious international Astrid Lindgren Award. Robert Munsch lives in Guelph, Ontario. Visit him online at <http://scholastic.ca/munsch/>.

PlayhouseBy (author) Robert Munsch , Illustrated by Michael Martchenko

Feb 01, 2002 | Paperback, Trade, Picture book | $7.99

- Children's Choice, International Reading Association 2003, Commended

A classic Munsch with a fresh new look — featuring new cover art by Michael Martchenko!

Rene's parents are as nice as can be. When Rene asks her father to build her a playhouse, her father says "good idea," and builds her one. When Rene tells her mother that her playhouse needs a play barn, Rene gets that too! But before long Rene wants a play cow, a play tractor, and more.

When her mother refuses to build her a play mommy and a play daddy she decides to make her own. But when she finds that her parents have replaced her with a play Rene, she quickly realizes that REAL families are the best of all.

Playhouse was inspired by a girl from Saskatchewan who wrote to Robert Munsch as part of a school assignment and sent him a picture of her giant two-story playhouse.

Pig the Pug
Pig the Tourist
 by Aaron Blabey, Aaron Blabey
 May 03, 2022 Paperback , Trade $9.99 CAD

You can't take this pug anywhere!

Pig was a pug

and I'm sorry to say,

when he went on vacation

he'd cause great dismay.

When Pig, the world's most selfish pug, goes on holiday, he causes chaos wherever he goes. The Sphinx loses more than just a nose, the Queen's corgis are in an uproar, and the Leaning Tower of Pisa is doomed. But every party must come to an end. And it does — a sore one for Pig, when he finally learns that if you disrespect the locals, they might just bite back.

Another laugh-out-loud book from bestselling author Aaron Blabey.

Pig the Pug
Pig the Winner
 by Aaron Blabey, Aaron Blabey
 Aug 30, 2022 Board book $10.99 CAD

The world's greediest pug won't play fair, and he'll do just about anything to win!

Will Pig ever learn? He's an absolute cheat and quite the sore loser as well. But when Pig challenges his foot-long playmate, Trevor, to a kibble eating contest, he accidentally stuffs more than just food in his mouth. Lucky for Pig, Trevor knows what to do and saves the day!

Young readers will love Blabey's irresistibly quirky illustrations that are paired with a relatable lesson about learning to play nice in a brand-new board book format. For dog and pet lovers everywhere.

Zero Zebras*A Counting Book about What's Not There*

By (author) Bruce Goldstone , Illustrated by Julien Chung 🍁

Aug 02, 2022 | Hardcover $25.99

Discover the importance of counting what's there and what's not there in this brilliant picture book that combines math, imagination, and creativity, perfect for fans of Greg Tang!

Zero Zebras asks a bold question: can you count what isn't there? Can you count... to zero? Bruce Goldstone takes us on a wild animal safari counting one wallaby, two tuna, three thrushes, four frogs... but absolutely ZERO zebras. Readers will realize the infinite possibilities of counting what is and isn't on the page. Goldstone's imaginative and creative text is brought to life by Chung's vibrant illustrations which include hidden numbers beautifully integrated into each stunning scene for fun some hide-and-seek. This is the perfect introduction to the concept of zero and infinity, showcasing the profound wonder of numbers in a playful, dazzling picture book that will wow readers of every age!

Contributor Bio

Bruce Goldstone writes educational books and is the author of several books, including Wonderful Winter, Awesome Autumn, I See a Pattern Here, That's a Possibility!, 100 Ways to Celebrate 100 Days, Great Estimations, Greater Estimations and The Beastly Feast. He estimates that he has written more than 2,000,000 words. He lives in New York City.

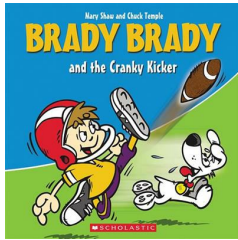

Over the past 25+ years, Julien Chung has created a lot of crazy characters for book publishers, art directors, and product designers around the world. He also designs pages and illustrates everything from superhero ducks to globe-trotting pigs for Montreal's French-language newspaper La Presse. When he's not drawing animals with hats, Julien enjoys collecting comics and hunting for flea market treasure. He and his wife live in Montreal, QC, with a lovebird named

Brady Brady

Brady Brady and the Cranky Kicker (Brady Brady)

By (author) Mary Shaw 🇨🇦, Illustrated by Chuck Temple 🇨🇦

Aug 02, 2022 | Paperback, Trade, Picture book | $6.99

Brady Brady books are sports — with heart!

Brady and his friends just want to kick their football and have a bit of fun. But everything they do upsets old Mr. Luddy.

Mr. Luddy's the crankiest, meanest neighbour ever — and all for no good reason! Or so Brady thinks, until he makes a connection with his neighbour. And once they start talking, they realize they're really on the same team.

The Brady Brady series is much loved by teachers and coaches for its engaging character education themes. Brady Brady and the Cranky Kicker focuses on community and connection.

Contributor Bio

MARY SHAW developed Brady Brady while trying to get her hockey-obsessed five-year-old son to read. The bestselling series, which now includes 17 books, is a true Canadian success story. Mary Shaw lives in Vancouver, British Columbia when she's not at her cottage outside of Ottawa, Ontario. Visit her online at www.bradybrady.com.

CHUCK TEMPLE began his career at the age of 18 when his first comic strip, Bernie on the Beat, went into syndication. He studied at both the University of Guelph and the Ontario College of Art, and cites Bill Watterson, creator of Calvin and Hobbes, as his favourite cartoonist. He also enjoys coaching and playing hockey. He lives in Kitchener, Ontario.
